

Quick reference guide to user types and access

The NABERS Waste Manager platform recognises a variety of user types. Each user must have an account on the NABERS members database before they can access the platform. This sheet provides a quick reference of each user type and its access rights. For information on setting up new users on the platform see How to register a building on the Waste Platform in our User Support Toolkit.

Individuals can have separate logins for different user types. For example, an individual could have a Waste consultant login to upload data for a company that has contracted them for waste data management services, and also have as assessor login to perform waste ratings.

A NABERS Account Manager is automatically also a Building owner or manager with edit rights. These roles have been separated in this sheet for clarity. They are also the only user type that can appoint the Waste Platform Manager.

*These users must be associated with the building owner company or building management company accounts on the NABERS members database.
